Christmas in Glendale

Yes, it is Christmas in Glendale as well as in the rest of the world. It's hard to believe it though, with the fresh green grass growing all around and the pepper blossoms and the encalyptus blooms dripping with honey. Though everyone is busy, the bees are busier, humming the same tune at Christmas that in the east is heard only in June; but please remember, Mr. Tenderfoot, that this is Spring. The filaria is in bloom along the high ways, and up in Sycamore canyon the wild scarlet fuschia is in bud. Timely rains have fallen, and from the heighth of Verdugo hills down as far as Tropico at least, there is a carpet of beautiful, vivid green, and very soon the mesas back of us will glow with the gold of poppies.

One can buy field grown peas, tomatoes, green onions, strawberries and all the spring vegetables for the Christmas dinner. How different from products picked while green, decayed and frost nipped during transplantation and sold in the east for exhorbitant prices.

And everywhere is the gold of ripening oranges, a sight most glorious to unaccustomed eastern eyes. They are jucier and sweeter than ever this year, on account of slow ripening, and will bring big returns to the grower.

And everywhere are the birds. Their Christmas carols can be heard any morning among the hills or along our streets and dooryards. In the vinyards, feasting on the leftovers, are the larks and linnets, swelling the chorus of Christmas song. What in the world speaks of Spring to the heart like the song of a lark? And yet, though we have all the harbingers of an awakening Spring about us, it is Christmas in Glendale. A merry Christmas to you all.

Busy Times Coming

All signs point to great activity in business of all kinds in Glendale during the coming year. Real estate never showed greater activity, building contracts are let, new streets are opened and road improvements are to continue. In the heart of the truly patriotic Glendalites, plans are growing for the betterment of our little city and without hope of gain or praise, these plans will be promulgated from time to time. Harsh criticism from the prejudiced will not deter these citizens from giving the best there is in them, while doing loyal work and giving time and money, for the promotion of the city's good. Strangers have been heard to remark that we lack civic pride. They do not know the discouragements we have had to contend with, nor, notwithstanding this, our growth and genuine prosperity.

Though we have at present no improvement association, there is a movement afoot that gives promise of better lawns and more of them, a general trimming of street trees, more flower planting, and some thorough street cleaning. We realize we must bank on the first impressions of strangers seeking home spots. These same strangers many of them, visit surrounding towns as well as Glendale when on the buy. It is well to be up and doing until our little city shows pride in appearance as well as good government, and clean morals.

Every tree trimmed, every flower planted will help the undecided to invest their real estate money here. Nowhere are the natural advantages greater than right here, and there is no rseason why we should not be known as "Glendale the beautiful."

POPULAR YOUNG BUSINESS MAN TO WED.

Of interest to Glendale society is the announcement that Mr. Jared Wenger, general manager of the Glendale Hardware Co., is to wed Miss Sue McCann, who resides with her parents at Fifth and H streets. Miss McCann recently arrived in Glendale, with her parents, from Hannibal, Mo., and is an accomplished and beautiful young lady.

Mr. Wenger is one of the most substantial young businessmen in Los Angeles county. The wedding will take place in the early spring of 1907.

GLENDALE HONORED.

At the Los Angeles County Teachers' Institute, Mrs. M. O. Ryan was elected secretary for the eighth grade section meetings, held at Polytechnic high school on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Southern California Teachers Association held meetings on Thursday and Friday, after the opening meeting on Wednesday night, when Superintendent Moore gave the address of welcome.

CHRISTMAS IN THE CHURCHES.

Much hard work has been done to insure the success of the Christmas festivities in the various churches, and as the time approaches the Christmas spirit fills every heart, and all are looking forward with eagerness to the joyous Christmas tide.

In the Methodist church on Sunday morning there will be the regular Sunday School service at 9:45. For the morning service there will be exceptionally good choir music, a beautiful Christmas anthem and a solo by Mrs. Josephine Bryant; a touching sermon follows, "The World's Reception of Jesus." In the evening a male quartet will furnish the music, and the sermon topic will be most interesting, "Jesus, the Wonderful."

On Monday evening, after an opening song by the children, and prayer by the pastor, a recitation will be given by little Margaret Byrkitt, after which will be given the Christmas cantata, "The Capture of Santa Claus." For this the little ones have been giving much time and preparation, under the direction of Miss Aimee Barager. Thirty children will participate.

Following this will come the distribution of gifts from the tree by Old Santa, who will be busy indeed in the Glendale churches that night. This is the first Christmas in the new church, and much interest is manifested.

At the Baptist church the morning service will be most appropriate, the sermon being in keeping with the thoughts of Christmas. Mr. Fred Hezmalhalch will sing a Christmas selection. For the evening service the subject selected is, "Salvation—What Is It?"

On Monday evening a very interesting program is to be presented by the children in the Sunday School, and here also old Santa Claus will come to distribute gifts from the tree.

At the First Presbyterian church there will be very appropriate music and a Christmas sermon in the morning. In the evening there will be some special music, taken from the new hymn books, the topic for the evening service being a beautiful one, "The World To Which Christ Came." Mr. Fred Hezmalhalch will sing the "Christmas Carol" (Heymond.) Monday evening old Santa Claus will be there at the close of some specially prepared exercises, to distribute gifts from the tree and to talk to the little ones.

Services at St. Mark's church on Christmas Day will be early celebration of Holy Eucharist at 7:30 a. m. Morning prayer (choral), sermon and celebration at 10 a. m.

A PLEASANT ENTERTAINMENT.

The entertainment given by the Methodist Society in the I. O. O. F. hall on Wednesday evening, December 19th, was a very interesting one and deserved a much larger audience than they had. On account of the nearness of the holidays everyone is too rushed to give even a really good entertainment, such as this, deserved notice. Mrs. De Witte Trowbridge opened the program with some well rendered selections, among them, "Samantha Allen At the Fourth of July Celebration at Jonesville," which aroused much laughter.

Clarence Peck rendered a violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. Geo. U. Moyse, winning the applause always accorded his playing. Miss Lillian Ward gave a piano solo, "Midnight Solitude" (S. G. Keisling), in her usual finished manner.

Altogether, the program was most thoroughly enjoyed.

TO MEXICO.

On Tuesday, December 18th, Mr. George Byram left for Mapastepec, Chiapas, on the coast of Mexico, to assume charge of the Hacienda La Aurora, in which he is a director and stockholder, and which is owned by "The Chiapas Land and Stock company", a Californian corporation registered in the city of Mexico. The place is about eight hundred miles south of Mexico City, and to reach it Mr. Byram must take a journey of three thousand miles. The Pan-American railway will be built to Mapastepec as soon as January, 1907.

Land all about the Hacienda is owned by Americans and the famous Hidalgo plantations are some thirty miles down the coast, where are the largest and finest rubber plantations in old Mexico.

The Hacienda La Aurora contains some five thousand acres, where are raised tropical fruits such as pineapples, bananas, etc., also sugar and to a large extent, rubber and cattle.

Mr. Byram is accompanied by his brother-in-law, Mr. Tucker. He goes from Glendale with the congratulations and best wishes possible of his many relatives and his numerous friends. Twenty-three years ago he came to Glendale with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Byram of Glendale avenue. During childhood he attended the Tropico school and later attended Occidental College, where he graduated in 1896. He was educated for a lawyer, but later took up other lines of business. Just five years ago he married a charming and talented girl from Missouri, Miss Ednah Borthick. For the last three years Mr. Byram has been with the firm of Pinkham McKevitt, shipper and grower of oranges, lemons and plums.

For two and a half years he has been one of the trustees for the Glendale Grammar School, and has served faithfully and well, winning praise from all who know how hard he has worked for the betterment of the school and doing all in his power to secure those teachers who have raised the school to the excellent standard which it now enjoys. In the building of the school house in present use, Mr. Byram was most active.

Of late he has been much interested in horticulture and decorative art, and has grown many rare and beautiful plants and trees.

Mrs. Byram and two children, Helen and Edwin, will at present remain in Glendale.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB SOCIAL AFTERNOON.

The special feature of the next meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon Club will be a social afternoon on Friday, December 28th, with Mrs. C. B. Guenthardt, the capable secretary of the club as hostess, which insures a happy and entertaining occasion, as this popular young matron is known both among her intimate friends and in the club to possess both cultured taste and the true spirit of hospitality.

Mrs. Guenthardt will be assisted by the president, Mrs. Pack, and other ladies of the club, and the desire is to have every member, especially the new ones, attend and enjoy an informal social afternoon at the attractive library and club room.

Mr. Harlan Pratt, a former resident of Glendale, was in town Wednesday, after an absence of about two years. Mr. Pratt lived on Fourth street during his residence here. He will visit in Los Angeles and Glendale until after the holidays.

Snow at San Bernardino! Who said anything about the sameness of Southern California climate?

If you have any interest in the future of Glendale try and do something to build it up. Actions are better than words, too.

A man in one of the Eastern cities imagines he is a monkey, which is an inverted idea of some Simians we know who imagine they are men.

Bishop Potter believes that the world is growing better. Wonder if the indictments of John D. Rockefeller of Ohio, and Abraham Ruef of San Francisco helped him to that conclusion?

If it ever occurs to the women of Cuba to organize a society of Daughters of the Revolution it is safe to say that the American organization of that name will be compelled to draw the color line.

The "oldest resident" weather prognosticators claim that frequent north winds in November presage heavy rains later on in the season. Let us pray that they may not prove false prophets.

If Marie Corelli really "loathes America," as she recently stated, she is merely getting on a footing of reciprocal relations, for all sane-minded Americans have long loathed Mary's literary incubations.

In view of our own mal-odorous elections it appears a little inconsistent on Uncle Sam's part to assume the task of forcing an honest ballot in Cuba. This is a case of where missionary work should commence at home.

Notwithstanding the exorbitant prices for lumber, building goes on unabated in Glendale. People must have shelter and they don't know of a better location in which to erect it than in this section. Let the music of the hammer and saw go on.

Candidly, now, does the Times desire negro supremacy and control of the government in the Southern states? How would you like negro domination in Los Angeles? Don't prescribe a medicine that you refuse to take yourself under any circumstances.

Fears are expressed that the "negro party" will triumph in the Cuban elections. But no fears are expressed that the negro party will triumph in the Mississippi elections, for instance, although the negroes outnumber the white men there almost ten to one.—L. A. Times.

The masculine mind seems to be incapable of understanding that the advance of women involves the advance of men; that in reality there is no man's side or woman's side to a question; that the interests of man and woman are naturally so inextricably interwoven that what is injustice and harmful to the one equally injures the other; and what benefits the one is also beneficial to the other.

Some of the citizens of Glendale tried to disincorporate the recently incorporated municipality. They got set down on fearfully hard at the election Tuesday. Two hundred and twenty-four for a municipality snowed under the forty-six votes of the kickers completely. So Glendale still thinks that incorporation is a good thing. Now, just a word to the wise. What is good for Glendale is good for Sierra Madre.—Sierra Madre News.

Sturdy Pioneers, These

The News office was favored on Monday by a call from W. A. Anderson and brother and Peter and Hans Anderson. The two latter gentlemen are uncles of W. A. Anderson and are in Southern California on account of the serious illness of their brother, W. A. Anderson's father of Los Angeles. Peter and Hans Anderson live in Toquerville, Utah, and are pioneers of that country, having moved there in the early sixties and they are fine specimens of the intelligent and hardy class of men that first located in Utah and have made a garden of that country. It was a most joyful meeting when these brothers, who had been separated for so long were again permitted to be together. Mr. Anderson, the Los Angeles brother, has made wonderful improvement since his brothers have come to visit him and it is hoped that he may speedily recover.

ORANGE SHIPMENTS LATE.

Of great interest to strangers coming into the valley is any information regarding the fruit grown locally, especially the oranges and lemons.

Last week the first oranges were picked for eastern shipment, and two weeks ago the first lemons, by the Sparr Fruit company.

The high wind of some days ago injured much of the fruit, which until then was first-class, but now will hardly sell as culls.

There are many orchards ready for picking, which were sheltered from the wind, and this fruit is of the finest quality and a good size for packing.

Recently the company mentioned purchased outright twenty acres of oranges and thirty of lemons.

Oranges are slow, and late for holiday trade, but quality and quantity will come up to that of last year. Prices satisfy growers. A moderate crop means better prices and less work; and growers and shippers declare they will be satisfied at the end of the season. Some of the fruit was picked simply to supply the eastern holiday demand, and this is decidedly picklish in flavor, through no fault of the oranges, picked before nature was through with them.

In 1905 the Sparr Fruit company shipped a total of fifty cars. During 1906 the expectation was that about seventy cars would be shipped, but the actual total was just sixy-one cars. This year the prospect is better than it has been in the past, for large shipments and good prices.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Lukens give their heartfelt thanks to the friends and neighbors who came to their assitsance during the fire which destroyed their home Wednesday morning. It was through the timely help thus given that nearly all of their household effects were saved and the loss made very much lighter than it would have otherwise been.

In a letter received from Ewa, Oahu, Hawaii, December 19th, and mailed December 8th on "the steamer carrying the last Christmas mail for the states," was a sheet containing an arithmetic lesson signed "Ah Kot, age fourteen, Honolulu school." Little Ah Kot is a Chinese whose work is exceptionally good, according to the judgment of Glendale teachers who have seen the problem.

The writing is that employed in the Island schools—the perpendicular—and is as plain as print, as also are the figures used.

FLAG RAISING AT THE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

After weeks of the most thorough preparation, the much talked of Christmas exhibit and flag raising occurred on Friday afternoon, December 14th, at the Grammar School.

For the event the several rooms had been most beautifully decorated with masses of fern, pepper-blossoms and holly. Miss Waite had persuaded old Santa to leave in the primary department a handsome tree. This she loaded with candies and gifts for the little ones, and with candles and sparkling strands of shining tinsel.

No one was forgotten, when, after songs and recitations, these gifts were distributed; not even the little strangers who never had been to a school before.

This kind-hearted teacher had supplied an abundance for all. Her room was perhaps the most artistically decorated in the building. Stars floated from the greenery, and cosy corners were made from chains formed by the little fingers of the pupils. The exhibit of work was exceptionally fine, showing how rapidly the little tots advance once they come under the tuition of this much-loved and much-praised teacher.

Very praiseworthy was work exhibited in the rooms of Miss Helen Best, Miss Lucille Shultz, Miss Frances Hendershott and Miss Helen McIntyre, and visitors were astounded that the pupils had accomplished such beautiful work.

The room of thet principal, Mrs. Mary O. Ryan, received particular commendation for artistic display and good work done. There were maps that were works of art, as well as book-cover illustrations, black-board drawing, etc. The colors of this year's class graduating from the Eighth Grade gave the predominating color note in strands of lavender and white garlanded about the room, well sprinkled with gold stars. Mrs. Ryan in an effective little speech thanked the Eighth Grade pupils for good work done and the high standard maintained, saying she was very proud of them. The exhibit over, the exercises for raising the flag took place on the campus, the day being perfect for such a procedure, and the children grouped in a hollow square in their holiday attire, made a picture long to be remembered.

After a song by Miss Waite's room little Edna Gulvin, age six, presented the flag to the school by the trustees. This handsome flag, carried by eight little flag bearers, made its appearance to the inspiring music of "Star Spangled Banner," amidst loud and vigorous applause. The two boys whose duty it was to attend the school flag fastened it to the ropes, and slowly it rose, till reaching the top of the pole it unfurled to the breeze and proudly floated above the Grammar School and then Old Glory, with its dazzling thirteen stripes and its galaxy of stars, to inspiring music and the clapping of hundreds of hands, received a salute from its proud possessors.

Elmer Nelson, Owen Emery and little Blythe Monroe rendered recitations which were well given and well received. The flag drill by the sixteen Eighth Grade girls, all in white and each carrying a flag, was perhaps the handsomest thing ever given by the school. With utmost precision they formed wheels and squares, and went through many intricate forms, calling out applause again and again. The figures of the Virginia Reel were notably good.

Owing to many special requests, this drill will be repeated in the near future.

Then followed the presentation of two handsome silk flags, one each to Willie Richardson and to Frederic Nichols, for raising the school flag each morning and taking it in at night.

Mrs. Ryan said to them: "In behalf of your teacher, Miss Hendershott, and myself, I present to you these flags in token of our love, and appreciation of your faithfulness and fidelity to the flag.

"May you always love the Stars and Stripes,
To them be ever true,
Long may they wave above you,
The red, the white, the blue."

The singing of "America" by the scholars and their guests concluded this happy event.

A NOTICE

In the Post Office states that a pocket book containing a large sum of money has been lost.

It's "dollars to doughnuts" that if that man had been a depositor in the Bank of Glendale, he would not even have lost his check book. More than that, it is more dollars to more doughnuts that he finds the bank pretty soon after he finds that or any other money.

THE SONG OF CHRISTMAS.

(Transcribed from an old MSS.)

Children of the earth, young and old, listen to the song of Christmas. I am come among you again, and I see around me the sight I love to see, the bounding step, the merry laugh, the warm-pressing hand, the lip that quivers with remembered blessing, and the heat that glows with good deeds done, kept there for God alone. I see the blazing log, and the plentiful board, and the throng of friendly faces. I hear my name echoed as a watchword of rejoicing. I feel that I am as loved as ever—And is this all?

Children of the earth, revellers at the feast, listen to the song of Christmas. Was it only for this I came among you first, only to crown your banquet with jubilee? Was it that the yule log might burn, and the wassail bowl might foam, and the table be crowned with plenty; that they who feasted all the year round should feast still higher today? Is there nothing nobler in my cheering voice, nothing holier in my song of joy, than the mirth which blazes for an hour, or the dissipation which will weary you tomorrow?

Children of the earth, triflers with reality, listen to the song of Christmas. When I came among you first, you were a sorrowful race. The winter came and went again, but brought no blessing with it: the sun looked down in pity, but kindled you not to praise: ye had no Saviour; ye knew no God; I broke this chain of darkness; I let in this glorious light. I brought on the wings of my glorious message the blessings of the Father of spirits, and shed them like dew in your path, that ye might be glad in the joy of your salvation. I shed peace on your consciences, comfort in your tribulations, light on the way wherein ye must walk, hope on the bed whereon ye must die. All this I did when I told you your Saviour was born.

Children of the earth, ransomed of the Cross, listen to the song of Christmas. The wilderness and the solitary place are glad because of me. The desert has rejoiced and blossomed as the rose, fruit has sprung up in the waste places of the earth and well springs from the rock and stone. There has gone forth a voice like an angel's trumpet, from which sorrow and mourning flee away; and every note of its thrilling melody repeats the Redeemer's Name. Well then may ye rejoice for whom that Name was given; fill up your cup with gladness; pour forth your voice in song; the utmost ye can give will fall short of the due amount of gratitude and praise He has deserved at your hands. Be glad, ye children of Zion, and rejoice in the Lord your God. He has crowned the year with goodness: He has glorified the earth with deliverance; if ye should "rejoice in the Lord alway," above all should ye do so now. Only take heed that ye rejoice alright; that Christmas drown not the Name of Christ; that in the joy of the Saviour's birth ye neglect not His great salvation.

Children of the earth, exiles from the bowers of Eden, listetn to the song of Christmas. Is it such a feast as I have chosen, a day for a man to forget his soul, to choke up his gratitude with self-indulgence, and to shackle his religion with worldly bonds? Wilt thou call this a feast, and an acceptable day unto the Lord? Is not this the feast, to break off the yoke of sin, to crush the head of evil habits, to lay up comfort against the evil hour, and to gather blessing and gladness that fade not away? to give with both hands liberally, to love with the whole heart fervently, to pass onward, onward still, in the pathway of joyful obedience; bringing heart, and soul, and strength, and intellect as offerings to the Bridegroom's Table.

Children of the earth, wild olives of the Gentiles, listen to the song of Christmas. Yes! there are hearts that love Him, and find joy in His favor. Who are they that wake the Nativity morn with the loudest and sweetest carols? that fill the Lord's courts with beaming faces, and bring the brightest smiles, and the happiest laugh, for the meeting of affection at home? Who but they to whom my annual return is a pledge of their purchased security, and who feel, as each year glides away beneath my wings that they are only so much nearer Heaven? Who but they who go from house to house, where the poor man is too desolate to smile; lighting up the empty hearth, and covering the starving board, and giving the naked clothing, and finding the destitute a home; that every suffering member of the great redeemed family may be glad on the Birthday of their Brother? Yes! to you I turn, ye sowers and reapers of mercy; your mirth shall not turn to heaviness, nor your sacrifice be counted a mockery; for the joy of the Lord is your shield and strength, and the God of the poor man is a Guest at your feast of Love.

Children of the earth, heirs of immortality, listen to the song of Christmas.

THE RUSKIN ART CLUB EXHIBIT.

A number of Glendale Club ladies attended the Ruskin Art Club exhibit during the past week. While there were some disappointments, the pictures as a rule were a joy to look upon. The most unique picture in the whole exhibit was "Moonlight at Montecito." Birge Harrison, medal, Paris, 1900, loaned by R. W. Poindexter. The bay is seen through a thick fog faintly lighted by the moon. It is a picture that must be studied many times to be appreciated.

"Dawn in Alameda Canon," A. Keith, loaned by Henry O'Melveny, touches the heart of the native Californian. The sage-brush, a few sycamores, the rocks and stream bespeaking California only.

Another Keith attracting attention was the landscape loaned by Dr. Earnest Bryant. This on account of a vivid green sky, and fleeces of cloud touched with burning red, not noticeable, however, without study. The dim forest, the wide harvest-field and the lonely figures in the foreground are all a setting for that wonderful sky.

"In the Sheepfold," Edward Henry Potthast, A. N. A., Clark and other prizes and medals, is owned by the American Fine Arts Association. Through a crack in the wall, a strong ray of light crosses the backs of the sleeping sheep and falling on the straw in the foreground makes it shine and glow. The rest of the picture is in comparative darkness.

There were two Corot landscapes, a Bodenhauser "Julia," and Bruce Crane's "Meadow and Sky," which has won many gold medals, at the Pan American, St. Louis, etc.

"The Girl in Gray," Dewing. Paris medals, etc., was really a symphony in gray-yellow and was visited more than any other picture during the exhibit. It really is a poem, and was the most properly-framed picture on the walls for girl, and background and frame made one harmonious color-note.

A water color "Street in Old Corn wall," Terriss, one of the most beautiful exhibits, was spoiled by ornate framing, as were many others though not to such an extent.

The gem of the water color collection, unfortunately, was hung in a poor light, and received scant attention, but Blommer's "Dutch Interior" was a study of rainbow lights coming through an old Dutch window and falling about mother and child, over walls and floor in every soft tint imaginable.

The sculpture exhibit by Miss Bessie Potter Vonnah received well deserved attention, especially "Motherhood," gold medal, St. Louis, and "Beatrice," as well as "Mother and Child." The posing and grace of flowing drapery seemed perfect.

The Christmas Sale a Success

The Christmas sale at the Glendale Grocery on December 17th 18th and 19th proved very interesting and a decided success in every way.

The store presented quite a holiday appearance, and the pure food demonstrations satisfactory, the various departments being attractively arranged and under the care of courteous demonstrators.

Monday the store was in charge of the Ladies Aid of the Baptist church, Tuesday of the Methodist church and Wednesday the Presbyterian church.

The ladies enjoyed the novelty of selling groceries to their various friends and to the regular customers of the store, many of them displaying a decided talent of making cash sales.

The different Aid societies were well satisfied, and what they made was clear profit, they donating nothing but their time and good will toward the enterprise.

A Sunset phone is an investment, not an expense. It saves more money than it costs. Look at the matter in its true light. You'll find it's real extravagance to be without a Sunset Phone in your home. 5c. a day is all it costs

Disastrous Fire

About ten o'clock Wednesday morning the fine home of J. P. Lukins, corner Fourth and Verdugo, was completely destroyed by fire.

The cause of the fire could not be learned, though it was known to have originated in the attic over the kitchen. Neighbors noticing the blaze called Mr. Lukins from a nearby orchard, and with the ready assistance of many willing hands he managed to save most of the furniture. A large barn in the rear, though threatened many times by showers of sparks, escaped destruction. The house was insured but whether the loss is covered is not known.

At the time, Mrs. Lukins was in the city doing her Christmas shopping.

OBITUARY.

Died in Los Angeles, December 15, 1906, James Brown, a native of Brownfield, Maine, aged 70 years. Brother of Mrs. Ellen B. Newcomb of Glendale, who is the only surviving member of her father's once numerous family.

Mr. Brown enlisted for the Civil War with the Maine Fifth in the spring of 1861 and served continuously three years, participating in 29 pitched battles. Long will his beautiful voice be remembered by those who listened while he sang the old army songs.

His true Christian character was finely blended with gentleness and bravery, honesty and simplicity. His life principle was to do unto others as he would they should do to him.

As a husband and father he was tender and unselfish beyond expression. A man without fear and without reproach.

Gone Before.

He is not lost the one to us so dear,
But only gone a litle while before:
So pure his life death held for him no fear;
Now safe beyond all pain and sorrow o'er.

As roses blooming by his garden ways
Make sweet with fragrant breath the summer air,
And birds give pleasure with their joyous lays,
So his sweet voice and words made lives more fair.

When evening's shadows bring the quiet night,
It seems his loving thought and tender care
Are near to lift the gloom as doth the light,
To help his own their heavy grief to bear.

ELLEN BROWN NEWCOMB.
